

MARK T. SMITH

MAGNETIC

The bull, the minotaur -- this form is the vessel that holds Mark T. Smith's inner musing on the masculine. We are defined by our dualities as human beings; we are both masculine and feminine, hard and soft, aggressive and submissive, foreboding and welcoming. The icon of the bull draws us to the masculine in ourselves. Recognize and celebrate this magnificent part of yourself. We are indeed a sum of the parts that make us a complete - and intriguing person. It is this continuum of dualities in our lives that gives us life itself. Who would we be without the complimentary Other?

2009, Cast Parian,
37''h 29''w 1.5''d,
Edition of: 26 Sculptures (A-Z),
5 Artist Proofs and
4 Collaborator's Proofs

